

- We are restructuring certain functional areas and departments within The George Washington University Hospital to increase operational efficiencies and reduce costs during this challenging time in the Healthcare industry.
- Unfortunately, the restructuring has resulted in the elimination of less than 3% of the workforce and the majority were offered other positions within the organization. The total number of staff impacted was approximately 60. Most of these positions are not directly involved in the front line of patient care delivery.
- All impacted employees have been valued members of our team, and we are treating them with dignity and respect during this difficult time. We are making every effort to support impacted employees, including transitioning the majority to other currently open positions or providing eligible employees with a separation package.
- At The George Washington University Hospital, our top priority remains providing high-quality care to each patient we are privileged to serve.
